Summer 2021

Karen Andreone Court Dedication

Family, friends, colleagues, and former student athletes were thrilled to have the opportunity to pay tribute to Karen Andreone, better known as “Ms. A!” A celebration took place in Kieran Hall on Friday, July 2nd, where OLMA Athletic Director Dawn Cerrone kicked the dedication off with these words: “ Karen Andreone has done it all! As a coach, mentor, teacher, administrator, play director, trip chaperone, Sports Night Director, Moderator of Leaders Club, Founder and Executive Director of Summer Sports Camps, and NSCHSGAA League President, Karen has influenced thousands of OLMA students over her legendary career that spanned thirty-three years.”

The gym, built in 1979, is part of a master plan to enhance our physical plant. This summer, the gym was painted and a new floor installed - complete with Ms. A's signature. The Tunnel - soon to be renamed the Hall of Champions - will be updated with new lighting, floors, and bright renderings to celebrate our athletes accomplishments.

Tributes to Karen came from all walks of life. OLMA Assistant Principal Sr. Meghan McArdle, OSU, credits Ms. A for planting the seed for her vocation. In her tribute, Sr. Meghan noted that “Ms. A. always paid attention to others and never allowed her students to be less than what they should be... she always encouraged us to be the best we could be.” Naomi Malamud, professor emeritus at Nassau Community College and mentor to Ms. A., marvelled at the fact that she lettered in seven (7) sports during her college career at Nassau Community College and Hofstra. Former NCC student athlete Sue Krawczyk remembered the advice Karen would give to her athletes: “Be on time, play with integrity and respect.” Karen was inducted into the Nassau Community College Hall of Fame twice -- once as an athlete and the other as a coach.

Former OLMA Principal Joan Gordon spoke of the many years they worked together at the Academy and the many ways Karen inspired her. Karen's courage, determination, dedication and faith have been an inspiration to Mrs. Gordon and thousands of her students. NSCHSGAA League President Lorraine Bouklas, and St. Anthony's High School Athletic Director Don Buckley both praised Ms. A for all she has done for high school athletics while serving as President of the League for over 20 years. Julie '96 and Suzanne '98 Westing summed it up with this quote: “Anyone can be a coach, but it takes someone special to become a legend!”

Class Notes

Members of OLMA Class of 1969 have been connecting with one another via Zoom since their 50th reunion in 2019. To honor their classmate, Lora Sharpe, who recently passed away, members donated funds to purchase library books, tapes, etc. in her memory. OLMA's Library Media Specialist, Sheila Frye Wilson '68, is most grateful for their support.

Debbie (Smiloff) De Louise '78 is proud to announce that she has published a standalone mystery, Memory Makers, with Next Chapter Publishing. The book features Lauren Phelps, a woman who volunteers for a clinical trial of a new memory drug in the hope of recalling the face of the man who killed her sister twenty-five years ago when the two were kidnapped and Lauren escaped. Debbie will also be publishing the 5th of her Cobble Cove Cozy Mysteries this October, with Solstice Publishing. No Gravestone Unturned features a mystery involving a generation of secrets that leads to a murder on Halloween in the small town of Cobble Cove. Join Alicia and Sneaky the library cat who follow clues to learn who-dun-it. Both books, along with Debbie's other novels, are available on Amazon.com in print and eBook editions.

Dawn Flynn '84 is a Project Manager at COCOZZA Restaurant and Retail.

Diane Naughton '84 is an accountant with a reinsurance company.

Tracie Ahern '86 is Chief Financial Officer, Chief Risk Officer and member of the Executive Board at PineBridge Investments and was selected as a 2021 "Notable Women on Wall Street" by Crains. She is one of the few female financial officers at an institutional money management firm.

Heather Reichert '90 is a Partnership Analyst at Alto Pharmacy.

Elizabeth Richardson '02 is an Assistant Vice President of Marketing at L'Oreal USA. She has been there for 12 years in various roles--marketing, sales, channel marketing, business development. Currently, Elizabeth oversees not only traditional brand marketing roles, but digital, PR, and social areas too. Prior to L'Oreal, she was at Bed Bath and Beyond in a buying function. Elizabeth has always been interested in mentoring and is currently in a mentorship program through L'Oreal USA. She is also involved in hiring programs through L'Oreal, helping interview potential candidates for the company's internship and business programs.

Claire McMahon Masiello '05 teaches English as a New Language (not English as a First Language) in the New Hyde Park-Garden City Park School District and has an advanced certificate in Educational Leadership from Long Island University.

Alexandra Sloane '05 received an MS in Finance from Hood College in January 2021.

Megan Shannon Jonas '06 is Senior Manager, Affiliate Site Operations at Thrasio.

Kirsten Lehmuller Reinhold '06 and her husband Kevin welcomed Madeline Elizabeth into the world in December 2020.

Giselle Melconian '10 is Business Development Head at Highlight Technologies.

Nicole Podpirka '10 is Sr. Talent Acquisition Manager at Accelo.

Gina Maffucci '11 completed her MBA at London Business School and is working in corporate affairs at ZX Ventures, the corporate venture capital arm of AB InBev in London.

Madeline Santulli '11 is a 2nd year medical school student.

Bailey Sutton '13 graduated with honors from both Northwestern University and the Georgetown Graduate School of Public Policy. She was awarded a Presidential Management Fellowship and won awards for her Masters Thesis on voter trends in Georgia. She works as a Management Consultant for the Department of Health and Human Services, is a Teaching Assistant at Georgetown's Masters Program for Public Policy, and is very active in her Delta Gamma Sorority, working with the University of Richmond Delta Gamma chapter.

Melissa Santulli '13 is a teacher at St. Agnes School in Rockville Centre.

Joan P. McGann, Class of 1955

I was delighted to be part of a gathering of "Massachusetts Mercy Girls" in June 2021; our Mercy Spirit bonded us immediately even though, at the age of 82, I was decades older than most. Eager to share my gratefulness for my years at OLMA as succinctly as possible, I shared with them within minutes the path of my life, with particular emphasis on how God has continually poured out His grace. They "caught" my message instantly with joy, and I was asked to share here how my years at Our Lady of Mercy helped me deal with the epilepsy that became a pivotal issue through the years.

I realized only in late adulthood that my challenge with epilepsy was a relatively unknown one in the early 1950's, and that I have been blessed all of my life with a shield of protective love and care around me. Mercy was a huge part of that shield during my vulnerable adolescent years. I was aware that there were many activities I could not do – such as play basketball, but this did not deter me from fully pursuing every study and activity open to me – from Latin and Greek to being on the Newspaper Staff to cheering wildly from the sidelines at basketball games. I belonged. I was PART of a loving community and cried when graduation time came. At my Fiftieth Reunion, I was stunned by how friends I had not seen since graduation had thought of me because they remembered seizures and were so glad to see me. The deep faith in God that was a first gift from my parents was nurtured at Mercy and has carried me through to this day. I think a sense of determination and accomplishment was also nourished.

I had been denied entrance into convents and into health care professions because of epilepsy, but found my way to a community for handicapped women where I graduated from college with a degree in Medical Technology – which became my life long profession after that community was dissolved and merged with another, which I soon left. Once again, I found my way along new paths with the constant help of God's guidance and healing. Today I am retired but involved with the Epilepsy Foundation where younger souls on this path find encouragement from my experience. Today it is understood that education of young people in schools is critical to dispel fear of seizures and nurture the compassion that came naturally to the Sisters and students of OLMA 70 years ago. God bless you, One and All!

PAWPRINTS ON MY HEART

Elizabeth (Lizzy) Olsen '98

Elizabeth (Lizzy) Olsen ('98) has been working as a Certified Child Life Specialist (CCLS) for the past 15 years. She received her Master's degree in Child Life and Family Centered Care from Wheelock College. Lizzy previously worked at a children's hospital in New York and for a hospice program on Long Island, where she was the first CCLS. During the past four years, Lizzy has been supporting children and families at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP). She started there in the Center for Fetal Diagnosis and Treatment and the Garbose Family Special Delivery Unit, preparing siblings for the birth and hospitalization of their newborn brother/sister who was diagnosed with a birth defect in utero.

For the last six months, Lizzy has been working with CHOP's first full-time Facility Dog Dilly, a 2-year-old male yellow Labrador retriever. Dilly is a specially trained Service Dog from Susquehanna Service Dogs in Pennsylvania. Facility dogs in a hospital setting work with a handler to help patients with goal-oriented tasks and procedural support such as blood draws and dressing changes. They also provide comfort and encourage expression of feelings to help normalize the hospital environment.

Dilly helps patients to overcome their fears, reach new goals, and remain motivated to complete their therapy sessions. Dilly loves to participate in medical play where the patient uses pretend and real medical materials and Dilly is the "dogtor". Medical play is a great tool for Child Life Specialists to normalize the hospital environment, and having Dilly's support only enhances this experience so that the patients can learn and understand more about medical procedures. Lizzy works with Dilly in physical, occupational, and speech therapies. Dilly can often be found helping a patient to get out of bed or allowing someone to sharpen her fine and gross motor skills by brushing Dilly's fur. One of Dilly's superpowers is participating in speech therapy sessions. Dilly is often one of the first names that is repeated when patients who have experienced a traumatic brain injury are working on developing their language skills again. The most rewarding part of the session is when a patient says, "Hi, Dilly!" It is such a short and powerful sentence that promotes joy. Dilly provides comfort and encouragement to patients, families, and staff with the support of Lizzy's Child Life assessment skills.

Throughout Lizzy's career she has valued the education and mission of Mercy, which has helped her to pursue working in leadership positions within her healthcare field and to start new roles. A Mercy education helped to give Lizzy confidence to build new programs, instilled beautiful values that are at the heart of the compassionate care that she provides, and built the foundation on which to continue to dream big and achieve a furry sidekick along the way.

MERCY HELPED TO SHAPE THE WOMAN I AM TODAY

Kaley Young '11

My time at Mercy really helped to shape the woman I am today. Now 27 years old, I am a New York based interior designer with a degree from FIT, and I have a family cutting board invention, the Cup Board Pro, sold at Williams Sonoma.

When I was in my senior year at Mercy, I was managing my mom's Hot Pilates and dance studios and completing my yoga teaching certification. That same year, however, my mom was diagnosed with breast cancer. It completely crushed me, but as a family, we all had to stay strong for her.

My heart broke when I lost my beautiful 47-year-old mom in August 2012. I wanted to continue my education, but at that time it was more important for me to be home with my family, helping my dad raise my 9-year-old sister and 15-year-old brother while continuing my mom's studios. I taught her Pilates classes, while helping grow her studio full time with teacher trainings, community fundraising events, and retreats in Anguilla and Tulum. I also created a Pro-Kindness workshop called "She Taught," teaching girls from ages 9 to 16 the life lessons that my mom taught me. At these workshops, I would have between 50 and 70 girls show up monthly.

In December of 2015, my dad was diagnosed with a rare cancer from being a NYC fireman in the 9/11 cleanup. My dad sold our family home in order to take the time to fight his cancer. (My family home was built in the 1800s and required a lot of upkeep.) At the time, he was doing really well, so I felt that it was time to go back to school to study interior design. I moved into my NYC apartment with my best friend, who is also a former Mercy girl, Michaela Lamberta. I was still home a lot to help my dad and my siblings and to run our hometown Pilates studio.

In the summer of 2017, my dad's cancer progressed. Sloan Hospital became a place that we would spend a lot of our time. On March 17, 2018, God called our dad home to heaven with our mom. He was a fighter and our hero. He never gave up hope, and that meant that neither could I.

At 24 years old, I became legal guardian to my sister, then a freshman at Wantagh High School. I had to grow up pretty quickly; there was a lot on my plate. I now had to manage my dad's home, my siblings, my dogs, my final year at school, and my mom's Pilates studio.

On April 16, 2018, the day before my dad's one month of passing away, I received an email from Shark Tank. My dad had an invention that they heard about, and they asked if my siblings and I wanted to apply to be on their show. Being on Shark Tank was my dad's biggest dream for his cutting board invention, the Cup Board Pro. How could we say no? Three months after my dad passed away, my siblings and I were flown out to California to pitch in front of the sharks during the week of Father's Day. The unbelievable happened. We got an investment from all 5 sharks!! They were all so amazing, and instead of taking any profit, they chose to donate their 20% in our business to the FDNY charity of our choice to help other first responders like our dad. I knew from this moment that my parents were doing magical things up in heaven to support me and my siblings. The sharks introduced us to Williams Sonoma, with whom we signed a licensing deal. This allows us to work on our dad's invention with the help of an incredible company while still being able to follow our own dreams.

In December of 2018, I graduated from FIT. I was thankful for the years of having my mom's Pilates studio but also getting ready to allow other doors to open. In January of 2020, I sold the studio to focus on interior design. Soon after, my boyfriend Brendan and I bought my beach dream home in Lido Beach. Now we have a place for ourselves and my siblings to call home together. My siblings have been my sunshine throughout this journey of life, and I wouldn't be who I am without them!

I have been inspired greatly by my mom and dad, my two angels in heaven, to always dream big and to do what I love. While continuing my parents' legacies, I have come to understand the importance of embracing what truly inspires me and being authentically me.
